WHITE MAN'S CRUELTY COMPARED TO INDIANS'

Dr. W. O. Bailey Says Red Men's Atrocities Are Equaled by Submarine Warfare.

Warfare by lawless submarines was compared with the atrocities of the Indians by Dr. William Otis Bailey Outlines Given in Addresses at in a lecture on "The American Indian" at the Church of the Ascension last evening. He said, in part:

"It seems a paradox to you, perhaps, sense of justice. Immediately there comes charging through your minds the hundreds of atrocities which he has committed in the years which have gone before, committed with preafter all has he committed so many nore or so much worse crimes than more enlightened white brother? I think not. The wholesale burning at the stake of the Salem witches in our own New England states, the pillory and stocks, the water tribunal of the ancient Anglo-Saxon and even today the unqualified example of the most intense human barbarism in the lawless submarine, are all adequate awless submarine, are all adequate answers to this question. The Indian performed his cruelties rather as a national custom than as an assertion of ferocity."
